Sociospatial Research for Communities:
Telling the story of people and place

Virtual Presentation on Friday, September 8, 2017, 2 to 3 p.m.

Divine Nine Room, Kansas Union

Dawn Wright (aka "Deepsea Dawn") is Chief Scientist of the Environmental Systems Research Institute (aka "Esri") and a courtesy professor of Geography and Oceanography at Oregon State University, where she has been on the faculty since 1995. Prior to joining the OSU faculty, she was a seagoing marine technician for the international Ocean Drilling Program and a post-doctoral research associate at the NOAA Pacific Marine Environmental Laboratory in Newport, Oregon.

Dr. Sheila Lakshmi Steinberg is Professor of Social and Environmental Sciences and Chair of the Faculty Personnel Committee at Brandman University. She joined Brandman University in 2013, where she teaches courses related to social and environmental sciences. Her research focuses on the relationship of people, space and place using a diversity of research methods. In 2015, she co-authored a book entitled GIS Research Methods: Incorporating Spatial Perspectives and has co-authored a book entitled, GIS for the Social Sciences: Investigating Space and Place (2006). Steinberg co-edited Extreme Weather, Health and Communities: Interdisciplinary Engagement Strategies (2016).